Legend of St. Mary's Bell.

[Original.]

This is the legend of St. Mary's bell at Breslau, the capital of Silesia, or rather, a new version of it, for there are a number of versions, including one in verse by the German poet Moller. Since the bell was cast more than 500 years ago, it is not likely that more than the main features can be given with certainty.

There was great ado about the bell to be made for St. Mary's. For a long while it was uncertain who would cast it, and at last, when an ironmaster was found with sufficient reputation for skill in bell casting, so great were the expectations of the people that he entered upon the work with fear and trembling.

The ironmaster was ready for the last act in a work that had for years taken up his attention. A long time he had been engaged on his calculations; carefully he had prepared his mold; intently he had dwelt on the combination of metals, especially as to the quantity of silver on which he relied to soften the harsher sounds produced by the others, giving sweetness and harmony. The component parts were all in the huge crucible, under which the fires had been burning sufficiently long to dissolve them into one molten mass. The long continued effort was ready for consummation.

But when the bell was to be cast, a wonder of melody or give out a harsh clang? It might be anything between these extremes. If thought, calculation, care, could make it perfect, it would be perfect. But in the calculations might there not be some error? And the casting—if the mold should be defective, if the melted metal should not be at the proper temperature, all this long continued effort would be lost.

Satisfying himself that the metallic fluid was about ready to run off into the mold, the ironmaster, feeling that he would be better able to bear the last concentrated effort by preparing himself for it physically, resolved to go to his house for a meal and a glass of wine. During the whole of his long labors a young apprentice had assisted him. Placid, implicit, confident, the young man's discretion, the master left the crucible, the fire under it, the mold ready to receive the casting, in his care.

When he had gone the apprentice stood looking up at the huge crucible that contained what was to be the bell of the Church of St. Mary's. He had watched every effort of his master, assisting at many of them, and with the enthusiasm of youth believed it would be one of the famous bells of the world. At the base of the crucible was the stopcock which held the metal in its place and when opened would let it run into the mold. That was all there was to be done—open the stopcock, and gravity would make the bell.

Just as the apprentice's eye rested on the stopcock a thought lit, like a spark, on his brain. Why not himself open the stopcock? He would suffer the wrath of his master, but his name would go down through the centuries as the caster of the world renowned bell. Whenever it sent its musical vibrations far and wide those who heard it would think of the story of the apprentice who performed the consummating act in its construction.

The impulse was irresistible. Going to the stopcock, he pulled it open, and out ran the molten mass. At the same moment a diabolic "Ha, ha!" rang in the youth's ears. Satan, unable to prevent the bell from exciting through its musical tones the piety and reverence of countless human beings, had chosen to bring about a tragedy which should forever be connected with its history. While the metal was running into the mold the ironmaster, having finished his meal, returned. When he saw what had been done, turning white as the snow, he demanded to know who had opened the cock. The apprentice falteringly admitted that he had done it himself. The master, drawing his poniard, rushed upon him.

"In the name of Jesus, I beg you to spare me!"

The master, disregarding the appeal, plunged his poniard into the apprentice's breast.

Time passed. The ironmaster was in prison condemned to die for the murder of his apprentice, and the bell was hung high in the Church of St. Mary's. There one evening at the hour of the angels it sent out a melody of such strength and sweetness that all who heard it dropped on their knees. Not only had its maker's care and calculations produced a marvel, but the premature opening of the stopcock had not been any detriment.

But the man who had produced this result was not permitted to hear the melody. Within prison walls, through which the sounds could not penetrate, he languished, wondering if his efforts had been effective, if they had not been rendered abortive by the apprentice. Then when his jailers were about to take him to the scaffold he begged that he might be permitted to hear the bell. His request was granted, and his journey was lightened by its exquisite tones. The last sound he heard before the executioner's ax fell was vibrations sent from the work of his brain. And he knew that if Satan had made him a murderer and connected a tragedy with the result of his labors he had produced that which would move mortals to devotion for centuries to come.

That which occurred while the bell-maker was being conveyed to execution was continued. From that day in the year 1350 never has a criminal in Breslau gone on his last journey to execute his crime but St. Mary's bell has tolled his deathknell.

Four-Colored Apples.

[Copyright, 1906, by E. C. Parcells.]

Colonel Gresham, stockbroker, turned gentleman farmer to produce new varieties of fruits.

Nature grows some two-colored apples, but when you ask her to add two additional colors she wants time to think the matter over. Every experiment was a failure, but that only made the colonel and his gardener the more determined, especially the gardener.

It was his duty as an employee to give his master all his ideas, but he made an exception in this one case. He clung to it with dogged obstinacy, but he kept it as secret as the grave. He might have clung to it a year or so longer had not the colonel become impatient. He said something one June day about giving up the experiments, and the gardener replied that he would have some news for him next day. He asked the broker to come home an hour earlier than usual and to come directly to the large farm house.

At the hour named the colonel was there. He had scarcely entered the barn when he received a crack on the head that made him unconscious for the next quarter of an hour. When he came to he had been stripped of coat, vest and tie and was bound hand and foot. He had not caught sight of his assailant before being struck, but now found the gardener hovering over him with a murderous look on his face.

"Will you tell me what this means, Henry?" asked the victim.

"Yes, sir. I have finally found how to grow four-colored apples. It has been a long time, but I have struck it at last. I hope to have fifty bushels on the market this fall."

"Well, let's hear about it."

"All the apple trees are now in blossom. The red ones are all right, and the yellow ones are all right, and I have found a way to make the blue and green ones all right. I have simply to sprinkle them with the blood of a man wearing side whiskers. A drop of blood to a blossom will do the trick, and once the apples start to growing that way they will continue."

Now, the colonel had a growth of side whiskers, and the only way to Wall street and a matter of joy to himself. Whenever you saw the colonel you saw his whiskers. He might forget his commutation ticket now and then, but never his whiskers. The two were one and inseparable. He didn't like the gardener's reference to those sacred objects. It smacked of familiarity, and there was a covert threat behind the words. He was at first inclined to bluster, but another look into the gardener's face satisfied him that the man had become crazy. He therefore changed his tactics and quietly said:

"All right, Henry. We will go up to the orchard and experiment. I am delighted to find that you have achieved success at last."

"But how can you go when I want your blood?" asked the man. "I see, you are the only man around here with side whiskers. If the coachman or the butler had 'em, that would do, but they haven't, you know. They are fine ones, colonel—fine ones."

And Chapman bent down and tenderly caressed the iron gray side whiskers that floated away from each cheek and were gently stirred now and then by the June breezes blowing into the open door. Never had another man on this earth except the barber dared to lay his sacrilegious hands on those revered objects of the money center of the world.

"But we will look up some one else," said the colonel as he felt a sinking of the heart. "I know of several men with side whiskers, and I will coax one of them home with me tomorrow."

"But I must have the blood today, colonel. Besides, for this first experiment we must have the nicest sort of whiskers. There is nothing in the state of New York to compare with yours. The papers have said so over and over again. How soft they are! How luxuriantly they grow! How the breeze toys with them! Your blood is all right, and the first bushel of four-colored apples shall be deposited on your grave."

"But I want to see the trees you have selected. I may decide to make some changes."

"The trees are all right, colonel. Here is a knife to open an artery, and here is a pan to catch the blood. What shall I do with your whiskers after you are dead? It seems a pity to bury 'em like so much horse and dog manure. You blame me for this has gone far enough!" exclaimed the colonel, going to the other extreme. "Unbind me at once or I'll have you sent to prison for life!"

"It won't do," replied the gardener, with a shake of his head and taking up a knife he had made ready for the purpose. "You are as anxious for the four-colored apples as I am, and you mustn't bring all our labors to naught. Here goes for the blood."

The colonel began yelling for help, and fortunately the coachman was at hand to respond. He entered the barn on a run and narrowly escaped being stabbed, and the crazy gardener had to be knocked down with a club before he could be secured. He was found to be clean daffy and was sent to an asylum and is there yet, and should you ever visit the institution he will beckon you aside and whisper:

"Do you know that if it hadn't been for Colonel Gresham we'd be having four-colored apples in market today? He had the blood, and he had the side whiskers, but he backed out just when success was certain."

The colonel hated to part with them, but he has had all those whiskers shaved off. He doesn't wait anything around him to attract fugitives.

THE THIRD HOUSE.

Legislative Annex of the Special Interests in Congress.

The third house, as the lobby is sometimes called, is the legislative annex of the special interests. It is the house of special representatives, and its membership is a curious study in the widely different.

Its meeting place is the lobby and committee rooms of the nation's capitol, the hotel rotunda, the lawyer's office, the street, the banquet room, the little back room, the bar, the road house, the home, the brothel—anywhere the legislator may be found and personally approached. That is the object of a lobby—personal contact with the people's representatives and the influence upon legislation worked thereby.

If legislators were perfect, there would be no lobby. If they were perfectly wise, there would be no occasion for the lobbyist who desires "to inform" them; if perfectly honest, there would be no occasion for the lobbyist who desires to "make it worth while" if perfectly patriotic, there would be no occasion for the lobbyist who desires for himself "a little personal favor"—at the people's expense. The existence of a lobby is premised on human frailty. It is present to prey on human weakness, to warp the action of the legislative body by appeal to vanity, ignorance, cupidity or fear.—Gillon Gardner in Success Magazine.

HARDY FERNS.

About Forty Species Are Suited to Outdoor Culture.

Among the hardy ferns are varieties greatly differing in size and form, from a hairlike creeping stem bearing a few simple mosslike leaves to the vigorous growing plants with large leaves, attaining a height of two or three feet. Ferns are interesting and extremely beautiful, especially when grown as specimen plants or in combination with other plants. The varying conditions in which the different species succeed are remarkable. Many of them require a warm temperature, while others do well in cool and shady places.

Of the 4,000 or more species of ferns not more than about forty species are suited to outdoor culture in ordinary soils and situations. These species can be planted in beds, borders or rockeries or in the foreground of shrubbery. As most of them require a somewhat shady place, they are especially useful for filling in places where grass and other light loving plants cannot grow. Perfect drainage is required. The soil should have leaf mold in it, or decayed peat or well decayed soil will answer.

Hardy ferns are best planted in the spring, but they can be planted in the summer if the fronds or leaves are cut back, making it easier for the plants to establish themselves before the winter sets in. From his florist the amateur gardener can obtain cuttings of varieties most suitable for the soil and climate in his vicinity. In the winter the ferns should be given protection, with a covering of leaves, hay or straw.—Washington Star.

Respected His Class.

In the mathematics class one day at Williams college Professor S., who was rarely made the subject of college jests, was excessively annoyed by some man "sneaking" a small rubber bladder. The noise seemed to come from near a certain Jack Hollis, and after querying each of his neighbors and receiving a negative answer Professor S. sat sternly.

"Hollis, do you know who is making that unbearable noise?"

Hollis, who had been the guilty person all along, assumed an air of stolid bravery and said calmly, "I know, sir, but I prefer not to tell."

Professor S.'s angry face grew calmer, and with evident pleasure he replied: "I respect your scruples, Hollis. They do you credit and should shame the guilty man, sir."

John Milton's Cottage.

One of the best preserved historic country houses in all England is John Milton's cottage at Chalfont St. Giles, to which the blind and aging poet fled when the great plague swooped down on London. That was in July, 1665, and Milton had just finished "Paradise Lost" and received a five pound note for it, with a promise of three more five pound notes if the poem sold four editions of 1,300 copies each. The cottage stands at the top of the village, and it is in practically the same condition as when Milton left it. Here the poet received his distinguished guests during the latter part of his life.

Zephyr, Cipher and Zero.

"Zephyr" and "cipher" and "zero" are words that come to the English from the Arabic "sifr," which meant literally "empty" and so "nothing" and the figure that represents nothing. In mediaeval Latin this figure was called both "elphra" and "zephyrum," the latter probably from association with "ze-phyrus" or something even lighter than air, hence through the Italian "zeffro" there is the word "zero" as a doublet with "cipher."

Run In Series.

"And is this to be your last tour of America?" asked the reporter.

"I hope not," answered the mature star of the dramatic world.

"But it's advertised as a 'farewell'!"

"Yes, a mere farewell. It's not a farewell farewell, you may notice."—Philadelphia Ledger.

THE EXPIATORY DEAD.

Inexplicable Fate of the Enemies of Dreyfus Revisited.

"Always the dead!" Reinach cried bitterly. "Whenever we find a forgery, a crime, always it is set to the account of a dead man!"

And he drew up a list, horrible in its eloquence, of the dead who strove the dark path of this monstrous case of crime and cruelty and infamy. Yet there had fallen so many of the enemies of truth and justice that he might have called them the expiatory dead.

Three I have told you of—that poor wretch, Lemerle-Picard, "found dead" in his room in the Rue de Serres; Henri, "found dead," with a closed razor near by; Felix Faure, "found dead" and smuggled into his palace.

There were many others. Captain d'Attel, who claimed to have heard Dreyfus avow his guilt to Lebrun-Itault the day of his degradation, was "found dead" in a railway train, his corpse blue and already on the way to decomposition, though his journey had lasted but an hour. This pretended confession, which Dreyfus never made, D'Attel confided to his friend, Chaunin-Serviere, a member of the chamber of deputies. Now, the deputy took train one day to visit his home. An hour later he was "found dead" on the railway tracks between two stations.

And Rocher of the prison guards, who also claimed to have heard Dreyfus say, "I am guilty, but I am not the only one!" died, and to this day no one knows where or how. It was as though eternal truth had reached down and slain this lie wherever it lifted its evil head.

The prefect Barreme was summoned to Paris by his government chief. He was "found dead" in his compartment when the train arrived at the Gare St. Lazare. Laurenceau, prefect of the north, was called to Paris to give evidence regarding the spy system on the German frontier. There was no accident on the journey. The next day he was "found dead" in his room at the Hotel Terminus.

Lorimer, one of Henri's most tireless agents of forgery and crime, was "found dead" hanged in a lonely barn; another, Guenee, was "found dead" on the floor of his room in Paris. Then there was Munier. His part in the conspiracy had been to falsify the meaning of a cryptic telegram sent by Pagnard to the Italian government, so that it affirmed the guilt of Dreyfus. And Munier was "found dead" in a railway train. Was it any wonder the martyrs' friends began to see in these mysterious and opportune deaths the work of an avenging destiny? With grim emphasis Reinach declared, "Decadence! Ja fatalitee est Dreyfusard!"—the very stars in their courses fought against the lie.—Vance Thompson in Success Magazine.

An Act of Heroism.

On one occasion General Lee, while making an observation, stepped to a somewhat exposed position to secure a better view and thus stood for a moment at personal risk when General Gracie, who was in the party, quietly stepped before General Lee without obscuring his view and remained thus covering the body of his superior until the fieldglass was lowered and the danger over—a simple, quiet act, but showing cool bravery and a self sacrificing spirit.

The Limit.

It was just a plain lying contest, but the prize was to go to the man who told his lie most briefly and casually.

"I came in on a suburban train this morning," said the prize winner, "and as I hastily flung up a car window—"

Labor Leader Hurts Cause.

The grades indulged in by the president of the carmen's union against Mr. Calhoun are calculated to stir up strife and hatred for the corporation president, but in directing his spleen Cornelius forgets that his thrusts do not hurt the united railway man's feelings but simply inflames his own followers to lawless action and anarchy. Cornelius shows up in a most unfavorable light as an undesirable agitator, and it is a pity that his brain should have planned the moves for the carmen's union in their effort to better their industrial status. They are most unfortunate in having such a leader. He has plunged them into so complex and awkward a position that there seems no solution to the problem which might have at the outset been adjusted by a man of policy and diplomacy in a very simple manner. His statements to the press show that manner of man he is and his utterances at a Socialist meeting where he spoke with disfavor of President Roosevelt seem to show that he agitates for love of it. San Francisco is to be pitied in that she has had so much brought upon her by the unwise and narrow dictation of the leader of her chief industrial workers, and the workers themselves while showing lack of stamina and self-assertion may be in a degree excused for their foolish response to a call from such a man as their president has shown himself to be. When union men come to realize the subtle qualities which a man as their president should possess just so much more successfully will their industrial campaigns be carried on. Force and lawlessness and their advocates will never secure anything for the workmen.

The very word strike is opposed to all hope of securing the right kind of bond between employer and employee. Capital may be crippled by strikes but labor suffers and so do the people at large and the wives and the children of the cities when the wheels of progress cease to revolve. If labor wishes to sacrifice all the principles upon which a nation like ours rests let them ally with dissension, but first of all should come thoughts for the internal peace of their government.

A Farcical Boycott.

THE SYSTEM of boycott inaugurated by the unions to damage Mr. Calhoun's business is a farce in which the United Railroads get the laugh on the labor organizations. The unions are imposing a far greater hardship on themselves than any other class, for they must not only walk and pay triple the price of a street car fare but must keep an eye out for violations of an edict which has put the ban on all patrons of the trolley cars. Some unions fine their members for violation of this decree, offering half the fine imposed to the informants.

To restrain the personal liberties of men, to use violence and boycott merchants whose clerks perchance must ride to their work is going altogether too far. Let the public decree by choice not by intimidation its sentiment on the street car affair. We of the country do not find San Francisco very inviting at present. Let them call us hoopers at their own sweet will but we will not stand for "scab" or fears. Those of us who cannot afford cabs, automobiles or express wagons, and whose corns are troublesome, prefer to stay at home.

Galliano's Quinine Hair Tonic.

Joe Galliano, at First Street East, Etnelji building, has introduced into Sonoma a hair tonic, called Quinine Tonic, which is a wonderful remedy for the prevention of baldness. Mr. Galliano has had many years experience under a first-class physician in Europe. A great number of cases of baldness are caused by indigestion, and not as is presumed, by a disease of the scalp. It is not claimed that Quinine Tonic will grow hair on a bald head, as a number of fake tonics are advertised to do, but it is claimed and guaranteed that Quinine Tonic will stop the hair from falling out, and if used twice a week will clear the head from dandruff which will not return as long as the Tonic is used. Quinine Tonic is composed of the five following articles: Pure Alcohol, Quinine, Sulphur, Glycerine and Tumeric. If the Tonic is used and not found as represented, Galliano will refund the money. The Quinine Tonic will also save the trouble of shampooing the hair. This Tonic is for sale at both drug stores in Sonoma.

JONES RANCH HAND KILLED AT WINGO.

Joseph Errington Loses Life Jumping Off From Moving Train.

Wm. H. Errington jumped from a Northwestern Pacific train at Wingo, while the train was in mo-fatal injuries. The cars were going at the rate of about ten miles an hour, and without waiting for the train to come to a standstill, he leaped to the ground. The impact threw him forward and he plunged headlong against the standard of the switch turn table. He was knocked unconscious and when picked up it was discovered that he was suffering from concussion of the brain and that his spine was injured.

Errington, who was a resident of Napa, was taken to that city where he died the following Monday.

the Senator Jones ranch as a har-

Ex-Governor Pardee has written Robert A. Poppe, President of the Sonoma Literary Society.

The last meeting of the Sonoma Literary Society was held at the home of Mrs. Murphy on Broadway. Mrs. T. A. Lewis, the president, was in the chair and a goodly number of members were present.
The meeting was devoted for the most part to discussing the life and works of Sir Walter Scott.
Mrs. J. E. Van Hoeser read an interesting paper on the life and literary activities of the great novelist and poet. Mr. Platt of the Sonoma High School gave a reading of typical selections from
"The Lay of the Last Minstrel".
Miss Waterman's songs and Miss Davis's piano solos added greatly to the pleasure of the evening.
After the program an enjoyable half hour was spent in looking at a collection of views of the home of Scott at Abbotsford and of many of the scenes made familiar through his works.
The next meeting will be held at the residence of Mrs. J. E. Van Hoeser on Broadway, Monday evening, May 20th, the topic for the evening being "Robert Burns," quotations from whose works should be brought by all members.
A large attendance is hoped for.

the valley.

Information Filed.

day last filed an information in Judge Seawell's Court against Antonio Aquistopace. He is charged with obtaining money under false pretenses, the sum being $283.45.
The trouble grows out of the sale of the Roma Hotel at this place, and Aquistopace is alleged to have declared there were no debts against the property, whereas claims aggregating the amount named have been presented.

ELECTRIC RAILWAY FOR SONOMA VALLEY NOW ASSURED.

Power to Come from Lake County, and Territory of Northwestern Pacific Will be Invaded.

The sale of the Petaluma and Santa Rosa Electric Railway to the Lakeport Electric Railroad Company has been confirmed by Hon. Theo. A. Bell of Napa, attorney for the latter corporation, who states that Richard Hotelling, W.
M. Rank and their associates have made a deal with a Baltimore syndicate by which a big electric railroad system is to be built in Marin, Sonoma, Napa and Lake counties, with ferryboat connections with San Francisco. The deal includes the purchase of the Petaluma and Santa Rosa electric road. The proposed system will invade the territory of the Northwestern Pacific in Marin and Sonoma counties and that of the Southern Pacific in Sonoma and Napa counties.
The undertaking involves an expenditure of between $10,000,000 and $15,000,000.
Hotelling, Rank and their associates already have a terminal on Richardson's Bay, just across from Sausalito, and they have made surveys from it to San Rafael, thence to Novato and Napa, and thence to Lakeport.
The proposed road will embrace an extension of the Petaluma line northward into the Healdsburg and Cloverdale country. Ultimately it will be extended over into Lake county, thus forming a double line covering a great deal of country between Lake county and the Marin county bay shore.
The Baltimore people who are to finance the project, have been all over the ground during the past four weeks.

$100 REWARD $100

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work.
The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for full particulars.

Relief from Rheumatic Pains.

Among the troubles that beset mankind rheumatism is one of the most aggravating.
"I suffered with it for over two years," says Mr. Rolland Curry, a patrolman of Key West, Fla. "Sometimes it settled in my knees and lamed me so I could hardly walk, at other times it would be in my feet and hands so I was incapacitated for duty.
One night when I was in severe pain and lame from it my wife went to the drug store and came back with a bottle of Chamberlain's Pain Balm. I was rubbed with it and found the pain had nearly gone during the night. I kept on using it for a little more than two weeks and found that it drove the rheumatism away. I have not had any trouble from that disease for over three months.

big attendance.

Jack London, who has started for a five-year's trip around the world, lived on the hill a short way back from town. Recently he told me of one of his many thrilling experiences on the raging bay of San Francisco. He said he went out for a sail on a boat that was not properly ballasted. Squalls would come and then the craft's bow would go down and her rudder would rise up so that it would have no control and the boat would tip over as if to show him what a fine keel it had. He succeeded in gaining a wharf after a hard tug with wind and wave. The "Snark" in which he is now sailing is not a large craft—only 45 feet in length—and there are not enough hands aboard to manage her should she encounter a prolonged gale. There are besides the author, Captain Eames, Herbert Stoltz of Stanford, the cook and the cabin boy. Mrs.
London accompanied her husband.

THE BUSY BEAVERS.

These Tireless Workers Have Altered America's Landscape.

Because its operations are chiefly nocturnal, so that it is seldom or never seen, and because of its skill in controlling water and in house building, something of mystery has grown up about the beaver. It is said that it fells trees for the purpose of building dams and can lay a tree where it wishes with the accuracy of the most skilled axman. It is said also that it uses its tail as a trowel, plastering the mud on its houses and dams with this appendage as a mason spreads his mortar.

Myths like these will probably have a long life. The latter belief is no doubt encouraged by the beaver's frequent habit of slapping the water or earth with its tail as an alarm signal whenever it is startled. There are many unexplained things about the beaver's life.

Long before the white man came to America the beaver was hard at work building his dams all over the country in narrow and sometimes in wide stream valleys, arresting the water and so collecting in its ponds the detritus swept down from the hills and from the upper reaches of the stream.

As this sediment gradually filled up the shallow ponds the beaver moved to other places, and when in time the dam broke down and the waters drained off a wide level meadow was left at the bottom of the old pond.

All over the continent in suitable localities, from Mexico north to the tree limit and from the Atlantic to the Pacific, this was going on century after century, and in this way no doubt were made vast areas of level meadow, whose origin is now unsuspected by the people who occupy them.—Forest and Stream.

PUZZLES IN NATURE.

Some of the Seeming Contradictions That Science Encounters.

The man of science, like the man of law, has brought before him many an anomaly, but, unlike the judge or the advocate, he knows that the contradictions he studies are only such in seeming. He feels confident that nature at the core is in agreement with herself. Any day, he believes, these apparent contradictions may be resolved into cases of detected law, not simple enough to disclose itself to aught but the most rigorous analysis.

In the realm of heat it seems that certain rules of radiation, conduction, boiling points and the like are general, not universal. In most cases they act as if alone; in a few cases their effect is masked by causes as yet not understood. Let a few cases as perplexing as that of the alloys under refrigeration be briefly recounted.

Common solder has a lower melting point than any of its ingredients. Sulfur fuses at 220 C. and thickens again at 220 C. When steel is heated and dipped into cold water it is hardened; the same treatment softens copper. While almost every substance expands with heat, rubber shrinks. At most cases electrical conductivity is impaired by increase of temperature, yet a carbon pencil rises to an almost three-fold augmentation of conductivity when brought to incandescence in an electric lamp.

We may be well assured that when these anomalies are resolved the explanations will bear in their train other difficulties for research yet more subtle. Science never does worthwhile work than where, as here, she points to her own unfinished walls and bids the student as a privilege and a duty to supply their gaps as best he may.—George Iles.

"Old Moore," under whose name almanacs and prophecies have been appearing regularly for generations, was not a charlatan. His name was Henry Andrews. He was a bookseller of London, and, according to an old year book, "his prophecies were as much laughed at by himself as by the Worshipful Company of Stationers, for whom he manufactured them, in order to render Moore's almanac salable among the ignorant, in whose eyes a lucky hit covered a multitude of blunders." Andrews was a very extraordinary genius for astronomy and was greatly esteemed for his integrity and modesty by every scientific man who was personally acquainted with him.

As Others See Us.

"And do the Americans shine in their conversation?" asks the interviewer of the foreigner who has returned to his native land.

"Let me tell you," replies the foreigner. "In mixed company the ladies assemble on one side of the room, and all talk at once about cooks and dresses, and the men assemble at the other side of the room and talk about automobiles and money."—New York Life.

His Quest.

An Irishman whose wife was fond of moving from one house to another was met by a friend the other morning while walking behind a van load of household goods and said with "Hello, Mick! Shifting again? Where might you be going this time?" "I don't know, begorra," said Mick. "I'm following the furniture to find out."—Kansas City Independent.

No Chances.

"Opportunity," remarked the border who is always quoting maxims, "knocks once at every man's door."

"It'll never knock at any door of mine," said the steady border. "I sleep in an attic."—Chicago Tribune.

A man who shows no defects is a fool or a hypocrite whom we should distrust.—Jobert.

THE ISLAND OF FIRE.

Java's Geological Eccentricity the Lake of Boiling Mud.

The greatest natural wonder in Java, if not in the entire world, is the justly celebrated Gheko Kantha (Gheko or "home of the hot devils," known to the world as the "island of fire." This geological eccentricity is really a lake of boiling mud, situated at about the center of the plains of Gheobogana, and is called an island because of the great emerald sea of vegetation which surrounds it and gives it that appearance.

The "island" is about two miles in circumference and is situated at a distance of almost exactly fifty miles from Solo. Near the center of this great mud "lake" are several columns of soft mud "may be seen continually rising and falling like great timbers thrust through the boiling substratum by giant hands and then quickly withdrawn.

Besides the phenomenon of the boiling mud columns, there are scores of gigantic bubbles of hot steam that fill up like huge balloons and keep up a series of constant explosions, the intensity of the detonations varying with the state of the weather. In times past, so the Javanese authorities say, there was a tall, spire-like column of baked mud on the west edge of the lake, which constantly belched a pure stream of cold water, but this has long been obliterated, and everything is now a seething mass of bubbling mud and slime, a marvel to the visitors who come from long distances to see it.

Foundation of Japan.

Every Feb. 11 is celebrated in Japan the great annual festival of Kigenetsu, the anniversary of the foundation of the empire by the first emperor, Jimmu-tenzo, B. C. 660. The Japanese reckon their present era as from this date, and it was on Feb. 11, 1889, that Mutsuhito, the one hundred and twenty-first of the dynasty, promulgated the present constitution of the empire of Japan, the fundamental principle of which is clearly stated in its first article. "The empire of Japan shall be reigned over and governed by a line of emperors unbroken from ages eternal." The organization of a parliament took place in 1890, which in the Japanese reckoning would be 2550 from Jimmu's setting up his capital at Kashiwara, in the province of Yamato which is regarded by Japanese historians as the beginning of the empire.

Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy.

There is probably no medicine made that is relied upon with more implicit confidence than Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. During the third of a century in which it has been in use, people have learned that it is the one remedy that never fails. When reduced with water and sweetened it is pleasant to take. For sale by L. S. Simmons.

REFLECTED GLORY.

It is just as much fun and less trouble than Real Glory.

It is a profound truth that reflected glory is far better worth having than real glory, as far as the actual fun of the thing is concerned. The man who after much struggling has won through to fame knows all the drawbacks to it and realizes that the game is hardly worth the candle. But the man whose only claim to glory lies in the fact that he is an acquaintance of the famous man has a splendid time, getting most of the kudos with none of the disadvantages. We see a great good man, let us say Algeron Ashton, and we envy him. But we feel that his position must have its disadvantages. The strain of being universal letter provider to the papers of London must be enormous. Far better the lot of the man who merely knows Mr. Ashton and can call him Algy. Mr. Murphy, the orator, supports this view. "It is well," he says, "sometimes in speaking to treat great men's names familiarly. In bracketing yourself thus with the great men of the world reminds one of an eastern saying that there are only two creatures that can surmount the pyramids, the eagle and the snail." We know of scores of men who have acquired reputations through their friends. It is the simplest thing in the world. The wonder is that everybody does not do it, for it needs but little labor.—London Globe.

Do You Love

your baby? You wonder why he cries, buy a bottle of White's Cream Vermifuge and he will never cry. Most babies have worms, and the mother don't know it. White's Cream Vermifuge kills the child of worms and cleans out its system in a pleasant way. Every mother should keep a bottle of this medicine in the house. With it, fear never enter her mind. Price 25c. Sold by Simmons Pharmacy.

Something More Recent.

"What was the cause of this rumour?" asked the Judge.

"Well, you see," replied the policeman, "this man here and that woman there are married."

"Yes, yes, I know. But what other cause?"—Cleveland Press.

Setting Him Right.

"Er—really," began Mr. Chesty, "you have the advantage of me, sir. My memory, perhaps, is at fault, but—" "No," interrupted Pepprey, "it isn't your memory, but your manners."—Philadelphia Press.

Wisdom alone is a science of other sciences and of itself.—Plato.

Stop Grumbling

If you suffer from Rheumatism or pains for Ballard's Snow Liniment will bring quick relief. It is a sure cure for Sprains, Rheumatism, Contracted Muscles and all pains, and within the reach of all. Price 25c, 50c, $1. C. R. Smith, Teaneck, Tex., writes: "I have used Ballard's Snow Liniment in my family for years and have found it a fine remedy for all pains and aches. I recommend it for pains in the chest."

While dining with friends in Cambridge, Bishop Phillips Brooks described with much enthusiasm a college service he had recently attended. "It was an inspiration to see all those young men singing so heartily. Especially they seemed to throw their whole souls into the hymn."

"Am I a soldier of the cross, A follower of the Lamb?"

Even Dr. X., the president of the college, sang as if he felt the contagion of inspiration. "Dr. X. sang that," broke in an incredulous listener. "Does Dr. X. believe in the resurrection?" replied Bishop Brooks coolly. "He was merely asking for information."

Good Words for Chamberlain's Cough Remedy.

People everywhere take pleasure in testifying to the good qualities of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. Mrs. Edward Phillips of Barclay, Md., writes: "I wish to tell you that I can recommend Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. My little girl Catherine, who is two years old, has been taking this remedy whenever she has had a cold since she was two months old. About a month ago I contracted a dreadful cold myself, but I took Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and was soon well as ever." This remedy is for sale by L. S. Simmons.

$8.50 PUNCTURE-PROOF TIRES ONLY $4.80 PER PAIR

Regular Price $8.50 per pair. To introduce to you we sell them for only $4.80 per pair. (CASH WITH ORDER $4.50.) NO MORE TROUBLE FROM PUNCTURES. Result of 15 years experience in tire making. No danger from THORNS, CACTUS, PINS, NAILS, TACKS or GLASS. Serious punctures, like intentional knife cuts, can be vulcanized like any other tire. Two Hundred Thousand pairs now in actual use. Over Seventy-five Thousand pairs sold last year.

DESCRIPTION: Made in all sizes. It is lively and easy riding, very durable and lined inside with a special quality of rubber, which never becomes porous and which closes up small punctures without allowing the air to escape. We have hundreds of letters from satisfied customers stating that their tires have only been pumped up once or twice in a whole season. They weigh no more than an ordinary tire, the puncture resisting qualities being given by several layers of thin, specially prepared fabric on the tread. That "Golfing Back" sensation commonly felt when riding on asphalt or soft roads is overcome by the patent "Basket Weave" tread which prevents all air from being squeezed out between the tire and the road thus overcomes all suction. The regular price of these tires is $8.50 per pair, but for advertising purposes we are making a special factory price to the rider of only $4.80 per pair. All orders shipped same day letter is received. We ship C.O.D. on approval. You do not pay a cent until you have examined and found them strictly as represented.

We will allow a cash discount of 5 per cent (thereby making the price $4.56 per pair) if you send FULL CASH WITH ORDER and enclose this advertisement. We will also send one nickel puncture closer to be used in case of intentional knife cuts or heavy gashes. Tires to be returned at once, hence this remarkable tire offer.

We are perfectly reliable and money sent to us is as safe as in a bank. Ask your Postmaster, Banker, Express or Freight Agent or the Editor of this paper about us. If you order a pair of these tires, you will find that they will ride easier, run faster,
